RECEIVED

AUG 31 2004

Federal Communications Commission
Office of the Secretary

Commissioner Adelstein:

Sir: As an elementary teacher (now retired) I would like to ask you to remove the violence during family viewing and a bit later. Children come to school and try some of the acts on the playground. It definitely makes an imprint on their thinking. Many parents work and don't take time to monitor the TV watching. Parents should monitor but if they don't those children shouldn't be tramitized when the FCC could work to protect them. Children handle violence in different ways and the impact may not be evident immediately. I ask you to take action and protect the future of our country-our youth.

Sincerely,

Gilda Jackson

I believe the amount of violence on TV has a direct impact on the violence we see in our schools and playgrounds. It should not be necessary to ban the TV during prime time so our grand children will not be exposed to all the violence.

Please take action to reduce the violence so we can turn the TV back on.

I don't want my family to be thinking violent thoughts, or to be seeing those images in their heads and so I don't want them to watch violence.

There is obviously a link between what people see and hear and how they behave or advertisers would not pay so highly for the privilege to be regularly seen and heard.

Please regard this truth and regulate the showing and promoting of violence!!!!!!

I stongly object to violence on television because I believe it has a negative impact on all viewers (to include our children). Violence in a modern society is an abnormality and should not be promoted just because it is exciting to watch. I believe that whatever one watches long enough will become "normal" in the minds of the viewer. I truly hope that for the sake of our nation, that peace and persuation will win out over violence.
